

IŞIK MIDDLE SCHOOL

APRIL 2021

13 PAGES

FREE-OF-CHARGE

CHILDREN IN ART

A Magazine from Grade 5

HOW ARE CHILDREN DEPICTED IN ART?

Insight from the students of 5-B on artists' styles and personal impressions.

23 APRIL 2021
101 YEAR
ANNIVERSARY

in honour of children everywhere

This is a painting. It was made by Lord Frederic Leighton in 1877.

This painting looks realistic. Leighton completed his 1877 Damascus journey. The costumes the women are wearing are most likely made of luxury material. The instrument looks like a Turkish saz. There is a girl and a woman. It looks like the woman is teaching the girl how to play the saz. They look so focused on the saz. They're sitting in a place like home. Leighton used oil paint in this painting and he used cool colours in this work.

This work is a very friendly work, the harmony of the woman and the girl is very nice.

This painting was made by Sir James Guthrie in 1886. This painting is called 'In The Orchard'.

The painting looks realistic. The artist used the colors very well. In the painting there is a girl and a boy. The boy has a basket and the girl is putting leaves or berries into the basket. The artist used cool colors. I think it's morning because the sky looks bright. On the left, there are white shapes. I think they are ducks. The forest kind of looks like the forests in movies.

This painting makes me feel peaceful. It's a quiet forest and it looks good for a picnic.

This painting is called Girl at Mirror. Norman Rockwell painted this painting in 1954. I think this painting is beautiful.

I see a hairbrush, pencils and a beautiful girl sitting on a chair at the Middle ground of this picture. In this picture we have a chair in the foreground, and in the background we have a baby doll, mirror and stand. In this picture we have 4 colors, the first ones are warm colors. We have yellow, light blue and green. The second are cold colors; dark red, grey and brown. The third are intense colors. They are green, red, white and black. And last we have Complementary colors; yellow and black. In this painting the painter used oil and acrylic. It reminds me of a beautiful ballerina.

I feel sad but happy.

This painting was painted by David Burliuk in 1944. He was 23 years old when he painted this painting. David Burliuk is also a poet. He is Russian. The people know him as "The Dad Of Futurism." David was born on the 21st of July 1882 and died on 15th January 1967. (when he was 85).

This picture is very colourful. I can see a small cute house. There are 22 kids in the painting. We can see the mother doesn't feel very well. Some kids are eating their food, some of them are looking at magazines, some of them are looking at cows and some of them are playing with each other. It's like the kids have painted the house because the bricks are colourful. They're learning from some boards and maps. There are two men's portraits too. The ceiling is like the sky. An airplane and a moon is there. We can see a black dog near the girl with the purple dress sitting on the dinner table. We can see some geese near the fireplace. This painting is colourful and bright.

I think this painting was made when there was a war. I think like this because everyone is in the home and they miss being outside. They drew sky pictures on the ceiling. The mother looks sad and tired. I don't think that the kids know about the war. Their life is normal. David Burliuk could draw this to describe the hard days in countries. This picture is also drawn to give us a lesson; "Mothers are very important."

This painting was painted by Theophile Emmanuel Duverger in 1902. The painting is called Alone.

In the painting you can see a young boy sitting alone in a dark room unttying his shoes. Duverger used dark colors such as grey, black, dark beige, white, skin color and aegean blue. The painting was painted with oil paint. The picture reminds me of loneliness.

The painting makes me feel lonely and a bit sad. It makes me feel this way because of the dark colors and a person sitting alone in a dark room looking sad.

This is a painting of two children and one big man and I can see the sea and a mountain. I can also see a man who is trying to take some equipment from the sea. I think this picture is made from warm colours. This picture's name is Word from the Missing. It was painted by James Clarke Hook in 1877. This picture makes me uncomfortable because it has black colours. The man has a bag and with his bag and I think he is trying to clean the sea because his children are playing in the sea. The painter is trying to tell us to clean the sea for children.

This is a colourful picture that is yellow, black, and blue. The man's t-shirt is pink. This picture is of a wavy sea. In the foreground I can see a mountain and in the middle ground there is a sea.

This is a painting called "Three Little Kittens". This painting's painter is Joseph Clark. He lived from 1834 till 1926. It's such a cute painting.

In this painting you can see three children. Each is holding a small, cute kitten. They are friends and protecting each other. They are under an umbrella. They are in a forest. This painting's artist used dark colours. Like black, dark red and brown. It's an intensely colored painting.

The artist used pencil, crayon or watercolour. It fits so beautifully. This painting reminds me of protection and friendship. There are friends that protect and love us. Be proud that you have friends and family. Everybody has different abilities. They are good when joined together.

This painting makes me so happy. There are little cute kittens and I want them. Animals are quiet living things. but they need us. Don't kill or do bad things to them. Love animals!

It's a painting. It was painted by Edvard Munch. It's called "Children in the Street". Edvard Munch painted it in 1915.

It's not realistic because we guess it, someone can say there is a girl near a lake and another one can say there is a child in the street. I can see a woman and some other things, but I can't describe them. He used cool colors, but there are some warm colors too; like red, yellow and orange. I think he used oil or acrylic paint.

I feel happy because it looks like the good old days. I like the old days and it's summer I think because he used a lot of white. When I see white walls or buildings I think it's summer.

To say shortly I can't find this painting's name but if i draw this painting i will put its name "Children's Fun" because boys are running and it actually looks like they are playing a game.

It's a realistic painting because there is a sunny day and the boys are having fun. I think they are brothers; they look similar to each other. The house, behind the children, is so cute. It's like a family house. This painting shows the past. There is lots of green and the boys are wearing old fashion clothes. Perspective is used a lot, a normal house is bigger than boys, but this house is a bit far from us so we see it smaller. A boy fell down when they were running, maybe they are running to see if he is okay. They have a neighbor far away from them. All of the boys are barefoot, so maybe they are trying to feel good while walking on grass. The weather is spring; the flowers prove it. Actually the boys look like they are posing. We can see red, orange, and blue flowers in this painting. The trees are long and the grass is short. I think the main idea is friendship.

This painting makes me feel happy, comfortable and nice.

This is a painting painted by Sir John Everett Millais in 1864.

There is a girl sitting on something. There are red, brown, purple, white, and black colours. I see the girl is sleeping on that big stool. She has a red dress. I think she is holding a brown dress. I can see something black with something white in it to the right of the girl. She has black shoes and red socks.

I feel very relaxed because she is sleeping and if someone sleeps I feel sleepy too. If someone sleeps, usually it is a calm and relaxing environment. It reminds me of Heidi.

This painting is by Norman Rockwell. It's called The Muscleman. It was made in 1921.

There is a boy looking in the mirror and looking at his muscles. Next to his leg there is a small dog looking at the mirror too. I think he used colored pencils and a bit of acrylic or oil paint. In some parts, he used bright colors and in some parts he used very dark colors, for example In the boys jumper, the color red is so bright, but In the rug, the color navy blue is so dark. This painting reminds me of the olden times, like the 1950's .

This painting makes me feel happy and excited because it is so cute and happy.

In this picture I see one child giving the other child an item. I can see a field full of flowers; red and blue flowers and white ones and some tall grass. The child on the left doesn't have a shirt, but the child on the right has a shirt. The child on the left has long hair with braids and the child on the right has short hair. Both have black hair.

